Would Clean Up Mess Nunn Tells Voters

BONNEVILLE, Ky. (UP) — Republican nominee for governor Louis B. Nunn, campaigning through the GOP stronghold of southeastern Kentucky Monday, predicted that many Democrats would help elect him because they are "sick and tired and fed up with the mess in Frankfort."

Drawing capacity or overflow crowds for courthouse speeches at McKee and here during the day, Nunn directed his strongest barbs at Gov. Bert Combs for his anti-discrimination executive order and "high living" at the Executive Mansion, and his opponent, Edward T. Breathitt Jr., for "his wishy-washy statement on the Supreme Court's decision on prayer."

Nunn said that Breathitt had stated he was not against prayer, but "I want you to know I am not merely 'not against' prayer, I'm for prayer." He repeated his statement that while he was governor no Kentuckian would go to jail for praying in the schools.

Turning his attention to the matter of food requisitioned from the La Grange Reformatory for the governor's mansion, Nunn said, "You've heard of living high on the hog... they're not just living high on the hog, they're eating all over it. T-bones, pork chops, hens are afraid to come out before two o'clock in the afternoon."

Nunn continued his ridicule of the food consumption at the mansion, saying, "One day they got one dozen hot dogs and two gallons of mustard to go with them. I just can't figure that out."

The Republican candidate described Combs' anti-discrimination as "one of the most brazen acts that has ever been committed upon the people of Kentucky," and promised to rescind it as his first act as governor.

Nunn turned his attention to highway billboards which praise Kentucky's economic gains under the Combs administration.

"Sure, my friends, if you are making a $1 day and get a raise to $2, that's a 100 per cent increase," he said, "but what good does it do you if it then costs you $3 a day to live?"

Rains In The West Fail To Touch Forests

By United Press International
Rain washed the Pacific Coast and Great Plains today but failed to touch tinder-dry forests and fields from New England to the Southwest.

Thunderstorms dumped nearly an inch of rain on northern California during the night, and a third of an inch fell at Lemmon, S. D.

Scattered fires ate through prairie and woodland in New York State, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Missouri. Foresters feared the blazes would flare into infernos because of the dry conditions.

Agriculture experts and weather observers started to total up the economic loss and fire danger wrought by the long drought across the Midwest and Great Lakes states. An area-by-area look at the situation:

Northeast: Most of New York's woodlands and forests closed to public because of fires. Rangers reported 63 new fires Monday, 204 so far this month — a record number. Woodlands almost closed to public in New Hampshire and Vermont. More than 100 new fires Monday in Massachusetts.

Great Lakes: Pennsylvania reports 68 fires this month. One has been burning for seven days. No open fires permitted in Ohio state parks. Burning permits in many fire protection districts cancelled Monday. Columbus reports 32 days without appreciable rain.

Midwest: Walworth Valley Association reports 63-day drought causes up to $50 million damage in Indiana, southeastern Illinois. Damage includes pastures, soybean fields, corn and grain crops. In Iowa, forest fires in Iowa have destroyed more than 11,000 acres. Fire danger on rise because of dry weather.

Midlands: Topeka, Kan., reports dried September since Dust Bowl days of '37. Above normal temperature causing crops to mature early, resulting in box car shortages. Ponds drying up, farmers hauling water for livestock. About 17 fires destroyed 9,000 acres in Arkansas since Oct. 9. Heat records being set every day and farmers selling livestock because pastures burned by heat.

Many cities have water shortages. Fall colors. Grass fire at Springfield, Mo., destroyed four houses Monday. Temperatures way above normal, foresters operating full time.

Police Seek Two Bandits In Wide Area

MAYFIELD, Ky. (UP) — Police in four states remained on the alert today for two bandits who robbed a small western Kentucky bank of between $5,000 and $7,000 Monday afternoon and escaped.

Law enforcement officers in Tennessee, Missouri and Illinois as well as Kentucky erected roadblocks throughout a wide area, but the 1963 white convertible in which the bandits were believed to have made their escape disappeared.

State police here Monday night said, "We have absolutely nothing to report."

The bandits, one of whom wore a straw hat and rubber gloves, robbed the Citizens Bank at Water Valley, Ky., just over the Graves County line from Hickman County, after binding and gagging the woman cashier and a customer.

The cashier, Mrs. Laura Catherine Stephens, said the pair entered the bank shortly after noon and the man with the straw hat asked her to change a $5 bill.

As she complied, the man at the window pulled a pistol and said, "Give me the money-bags!"

When she told him where the money was, the man tied her, sealed her mouth with adhesive tape and forced her to lie on the floor.

While the bandit was collecting the money, a customer, Charles Bennett, of Water Valley, entered, and he, too, was bound and gagged.

Mrs. Stephens said the second bandit, who wore a silk stocking mask, took almost no part in the robbery, but merely stood and watched.

The two fled in the white convertible and last were seen speeding out the Mount Zion Road, which runs west from Water Valley.

Mrs. Stephens freed herself from her bonds and called police within a few minutes after the robbery. She described one of the bandits as about 6 feet tall. The other, wearing the straw hat, was described as about 5-foot, 10-inches tall.

Miss Irvin Is Speaker For B&PW Dinner

Miss Helen G. Irvin of Des Moines, Iowa, was the guest speaker at the banquet Saturday evening for the 25th annual Fall Roundup of Districts I, II, and III of the Kentucky Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs held at the Kenlake Hotel Saturday and Sunday.

The speaker who was the 1952-54 president of the National Federation and is now president of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women recently returned from Europe where she visited B&PW clubs in England, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, and France, and plans to leave about October 26 for another trip abroad.

Miss Irvin said the international federation has established a Rehabilitation and Relief Center with one of the purposes being an educational program for young girls in the Middle East.

"The Responsibility of Full Partnership" is the national theme for B&PW this year. Miss Irvin said we are living a very fast age and women are taking their places in business and industry and we must accept our responsibility to help aid the young women in preparing themselves to face the opportunities of tomorrow.

In closing the speaker gave this quotation, "I am only one, but still I am one. I cannot do everything, and because I cannot do everything, I will not refuse to do something."

Would Be For Rural Coops Says Breathitt

LOUISVILLE (UP) — Edward T. Breathitt Jr., Democratic candidate for governor, told members of Kentucky's rural electric cooperatives today that he does not agree with those who consider the cooperatives "creeping socialism."

The Democratic nominee said at the state convention of the rural electric cooperatives this morning, "I am ready to join you in fighting their efforts to tear down the things which you have built up with so much toil and dedication over the past quarter-century."

Breathitt said it would be tragic to find in power at Frankfort men who would liquidate the cooperatives, or sponsor harmful legislation.

He castigated the Republican opponent, Louie B. Nunn, for failing to appear at the meeting, or to respond to a questionnaire sent to both candidates by the electric cooperative organization.

Pointing out that he had both served in the legislature and as a member of the Public Service Commission, Breathitt said he had never cast a vote unfriendly to the co-ops, and that as a PSC member, "I have always helped to administer the laws fairly and impartially."

Speaking over a nine - station television network Monday evening, Breathitt said that if elected his administration would "go to bat for the" so-called "tax law" to provide accelerated depreciation for capital investment, "as a means of attracting industry to the state."

Earlier in the day, Breathitt campaigned in Nunn's hometown of Glasgow, where he said his listeners knew his opponent better than he did.

"You know his record, you know his life, you know his temperament, and on the basis of what you know I am content for you to decide whether you think he is better equipped than I to complete Kentucky's business during the next four years" he said.

Breathitt said, "Our opponents have no program except discouraging the real platform except an increase of the sales tax and an increase in state income taxes."

During the day he also campaigned at Campbellsville, Columbia and Bowling Green, speaking Monday night to an overflow crowd at the Warren County Courthouse.

Legislation Needed Badly For Cotton

By BERNARD BRENNER

United Press International WASHINGTON 10P — Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., says the Agriculture Department's latest cotton crop report should make it clear that new cotton legislation is badly needed.

The Department estimated that the 1963 crop would reach 14,847,000 bales. The per-acre yield was estimated at a record-breaking 500 pounds, a one bale to the acre average for the entire cotton belt. With production at this level, the cotton surplus will go up for 11-200,000 bales last summer to a total of about 12,400,000 bales next Aug. 1. Poage said, "this report should show anybody that we simply can't go on as we're going."

But he said, he does not have much hope for congressional passage of legislation designed to reduce the surplus by boosting cotton sales. "There's some prospect for action, but not much," he added.

Poage said his forecast was based on the belief that the several segments of the cotton industry are not currently united behind proposed new legislation.

Some other congressional sources have been more hopeful recently about the chances of passing a cotton bill currently pending in the House.

The bill, sponsored by Chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C., of the House Agriculture Committee, would authorize a subsidy to domestic cotton handlers. They could then buy from farmers at the support price, and resell to American mills at a lower price. The reduced price to mills would presumably step up cotton sales.

Some farm leaders have opposed the subsidy idea and recommended, instead, a moderate reduction in farm support prices. The American Farm Bureau has charged that the Kennedy Administration's increase in cotton supports two years ago played a big part in the increase in surpluses after mid-1961.

Kentucky Baptists Will Meet In 126 Session Next Month

The 126th annual session of the Kentucky Baptist Convention is scheduled to be held November 15-16 at Lexington, it was announced by convention officials at Middletown today. Meeting with the Callvary Baptist Church of Lexington, Dr. Franklin Owen host pastor, the convention will be called to order by Dr. E. Keevil Judy, president and pastor of the First Baptist Church of Henderson at 10:30 a.m. November 15.

The convention will be climaxed this year by a special closing day on November 16 devoted to launching the Christian Education Advance Campaign concluding with a gigantic youth rally in the evening. In addition to the campaign emphasis, the evening program will be featured by the appearance of two prominent young people. They are Miss America of 1964, and Bobby Richardson, second baseman of the New York Yankees. Attendance is expected to reach the 14,000 capacity of the Memorial Coliseum at the University of Kentucky for this occasion.

The CEA Campaign, authorized by the convention, is an unprecedented effort by Kentucky Baptists to raise more than $6 million for their seven schools and colleges, seven Baptist Student Union centers and youth camps at Cedar Grove. The funds are to be used exclusively for capital expansion and improvement.

Messengers to the annual session will vote on a $3.1 million Cooperative Program budget for 1964-65. The budget, already approved by the Executive Board, will come to the Convention as the Board's recommendation.

Officers elected last year will be presiding this year. In addition to Dr. Judy, they include Rev. T. L. McSwain, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist Church, Paducah, first vice-president, and Dr. G. David McClure, physician and surgeon of Louisville, second vice-president. Voting on all matters is restricted to the messengers elected by the churches cooperating with the Convention, but the sessions are open to the public.

Sex Marches On In Films From H'wood

By VERNON SCOTT
United Press International
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sex is a mis-spelled word in Hollywood. The movies, which sometimes appear to be in a perpetual state of adolescence, are self-conscious about sex. They confuse it with lust or humor or both.

The result has been an increasing number of "adult only" films and continued censure from watch and ward groups.

The current issue of the Green Sheet, published by a group of ten national organizations, found only one movie in 22 new releases worth a general audience classification. Seven were labeled for adults only.

The seven: "In The Strutch Style," "A New Kind of Love," "Two Are Guilty," "Wall of Noise," "The Greenwich Village Story," "Wives And Lovers."

Primary objection to the films as family fare was the treatment of sex. And not because the leading lady was scantily clad.

Sex Snickers
It is because today's movies — discounting outright salacious pictures — treat adultery, trial marriages and prostitution with offhand approbation or snickering humor.

Such vaunted directors as Billy Wilder give the big stag party wink for the double entendres in "Irma La Douce." He rarely makes a picture without a suggestive scene or theme — "The Apartment," "One, Two, Three," "Some Like It Hot," — all were filled with sex.

Sex in foreign movies frequently passes muster because it is treated artistically, or failing that, at least maturely.

American producers and directors are inclined to make it poolroom funny.

More Coming
In the coming months more sex than ever will be filling the nation's movie screens. The laughs are supposed to cover the dirty jokes that might otherwise upset the Shurlock office. Hollywood's own censors.

For rampant sex, Columbia will soon release "Under The Yum Yum Tree" with Jack Lemmon as a lecherous landlord attempting to seduce Carol Lynley, who is undergoing a trial marriage with Dean Jones. United Artists offers "The Triangle Straightens—The murder of wealthy jeweler Richard Richards, 38, unfolded an unusual love triangle in Cleveland, involving cocktail waitress Mrs. June Wasko, 27, shown in her home. Investigation revealed that Richards, divorced for six years, and Mrs. Wasko had been dating regularly for 18 months with the knowledge and consent of her husband, who said it was all right with him as long as she took proper care of the house and children.

Pink Panther, a bedroom farce that has David Niven, Peter Sellers and Robert Wagner all jangling in and out and beneath Capoline's bed. There are dozens of other examples of so-called sophisticated humor coming up, for instance, "Charade" and "The Prize."

But censors, anxious parents and the Green Sheet can relax when "Mary Poppins" and "Wild Geese" are released. A fella named Disney produced 'em both.

"BRAKES" ON PADDY WAGON—A Negro girl lies in front of the wheels of the paddy wagon in St. Louis, Mo., and two others sit in front, trying to prevent it from leaving the Jefferson Bank & Trust with a load of 21 Negro demonstrators. The demonstration was over the bank's alleged discriminatory hiring practices.

FOUND AFTER 30 YEARS—Terry Ritz (left) and her mother, Mrs. Marion Ritz, snuggle up to each other in Miami Beach, Fla., after a 30-year separation. Terry, a waitress in a Miami Beach restaurant, had waited upon her mother for six months, and finally yielded to an impulse to ask her name. They formerly lived in New York.

Dear Abby . . .

Get Help . . . Fast!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please put this in the paper quick, as I am a wreck. My husband doesn't trust anybody—not even me. Lately he's been buying his own groceries and cooking his own meals because he thinks I'm trying to poison him. He uses vile language, and he accuses me of the filthiest things. And after 43 years of love and faithfulness! If there is a knock on the door, he goes with his pistol to answer it. He has spells and acts like his old sweet self for a day or two, then he starts in acting ugly again. I'm afraid—if I ask anyone for help they will lock him up. Please tell me what to do, but don't let on where this letter came from.

FRIGHTENED WOMAN
DEAR ABBY: Get your husband to a doctor if you have to call the sheriff or police to help you. He has the symptoms of a very sick man. It is no disgrace to be sick, but it is disgraceful to delay treatment which could hasten your husband's recovery. If he must be temporarily "locked up," prevent his harming and/or others. It's a kindness to lock him up.

am 53 years old and I have never owned a flag or flown one. I did send one son to World War II, and another to the Korean conflict. I cast my vote and raise my voice in protest when bigots and men of all will endanger our precious heritage. I love my fellow man, and hold his rights as dear as my own, regardless of his race, color or creed. Anyone can wave a flag, but what does it prove? Live your life according to God's will, and you won't need to.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SUE IN PINE BLUFF: Yes, I am married, and have been to the same wonderful man for 24 years. We have a daughter 21, and a son 18, and are healthy, happy, normal, L-U-C-K-Y people living in southern California.

What's on your mind? For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: I am not a child. In fact, I'm a grown woman of 50, but there is a question I'd like to ask you. When robins, or other birds, lay their eggs, do these eggs grow any larger before they're hatched? I hope this doesn't sound like a silly question, but I must settle a discussion with my husband who says once eggs are laid they do not grow. I say they do.

MISS A. G. Trust your husband to give you the correct information about the birds. He's right! Now, if you want to know anything about the bees, you have a honey of an authority at home.

DEAR ABBY: Why all this nonsense about displaying the flag? I

Telephone Talk

by
TOM BREWER
Your Telephone Manager

NOTE: This space is being donated this month to the Murray-Calloway County United Fund. The message below was written by Donald R. Tucker, your Campaign Chairman.

The annual United Fund campaign is now in progress and will continue until about Thanksgiving. Again the familiar local appeals will seek support from the public.

This campaign offers everyone the opportunity to contribute to a wide variety of humanitarian organizations through a single appeal. Among the many organizations who have joined in these unified appeals are the Red Cross, U.S.O., Family Service Organizations, Child Care Agencies, Youth Programs, and Mental Health Organizations. Other campaigns for various charities and causes are made because United Fund is voluntary and the other agencies cannot be forced to take part. The public must carry the responsibility of the support of the needy, and the way to do so is the United way.

The people of this county run the campaign—they set the goal, head the campaign, ask for your gift, and distribute what is given to those who need it. The amount to be given by each person, business or organization, is strictly up to the giver, but enough money must be given to make our community a better place to live and work. There is no substitute for the United Fund.

We thank the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company for giving us this space to present our cause and urge everyone to give with the same generous spirit.
